ABSTRACT

IMPROVED SAMPLE PREPARATION FOR THE DETECTION OF INFECTIOUS AGENTS

Methods for improving the quality of sub-optimal patient samples for detection of infectious agents are described. In particular, endocervical fluid samples or vaginal fluid samples are treated with DNase to improve the reliability of detection of infectious agents. Kits for carrying out the methods are also described.